"Much Ado About Nothing"

*America
When did you die?*

*Stop and look around you
At the now blackened sky
Where the birds seldom fly*

*Come my brothers and sisters
Tell me what you see*

*Come my brothers and sisters
Come and follow me*

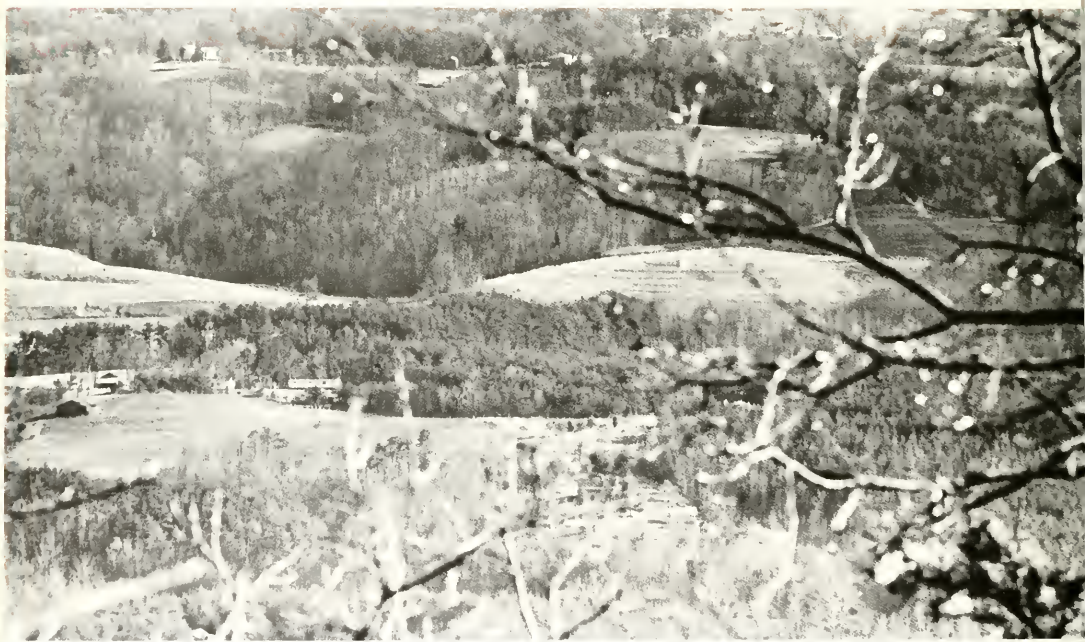

*It's a land our fathers fought for
Many of them died
For a land they believed in
Their hearts filled with pride
They knew that they had given
So their sons wouldn't have to die
They could live for evermore
And never have to cry*

*Come my brothers and sisters
Come and take my hand*

*Where we can be free
No wars are fought there
Peace reigns through the land*

*Come my brothers and sisters
Come and follow me
To a land that I've heard about*

Be A Non-Comfortist
USE The Walk

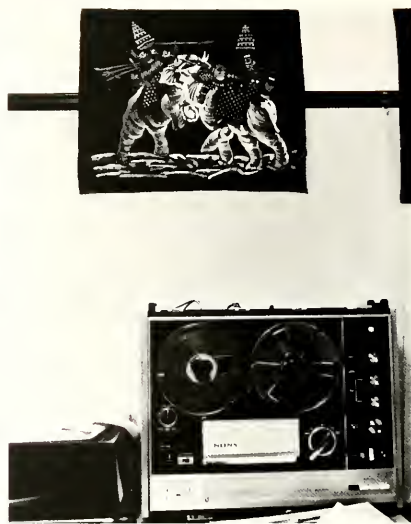

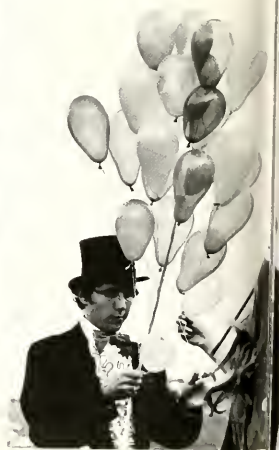

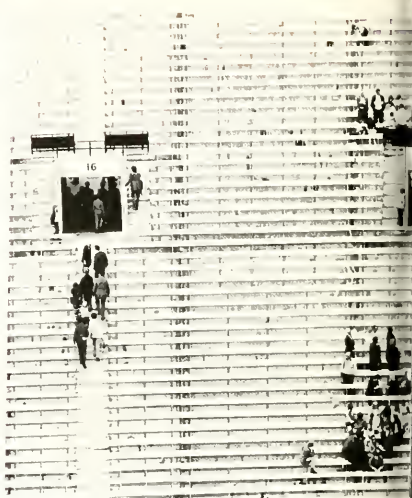

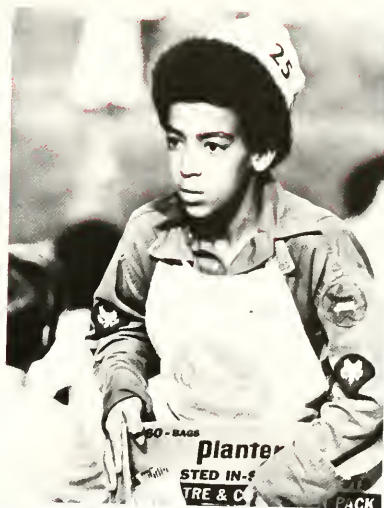

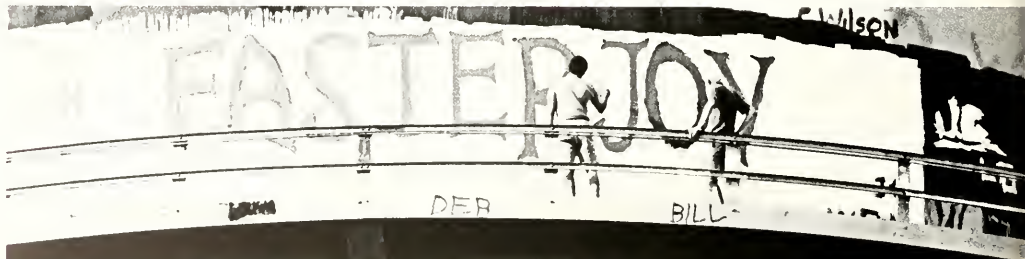

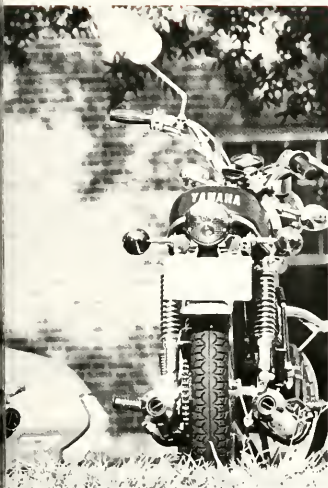

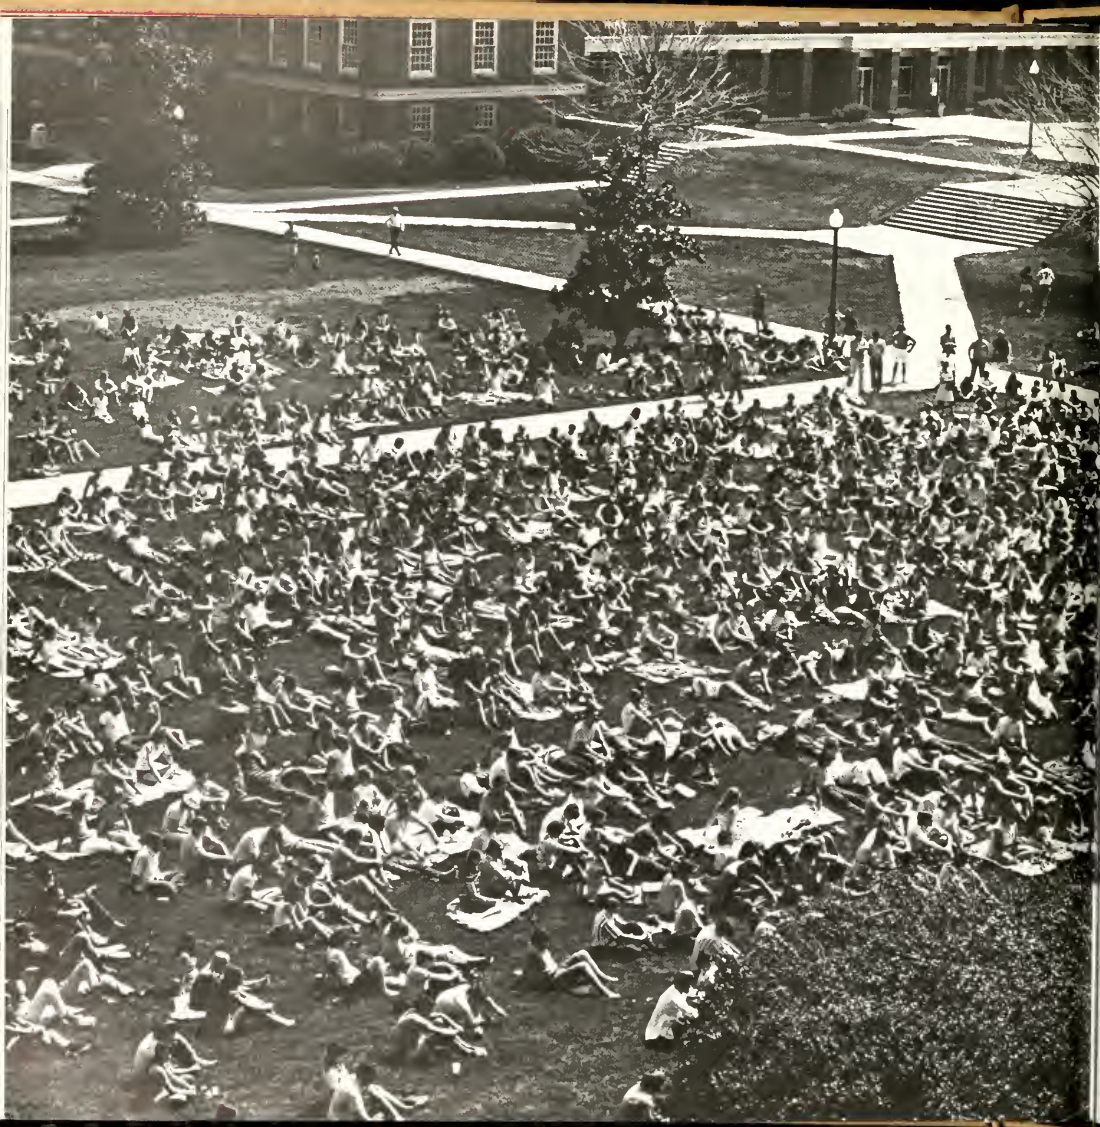

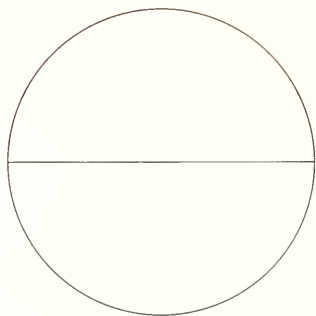

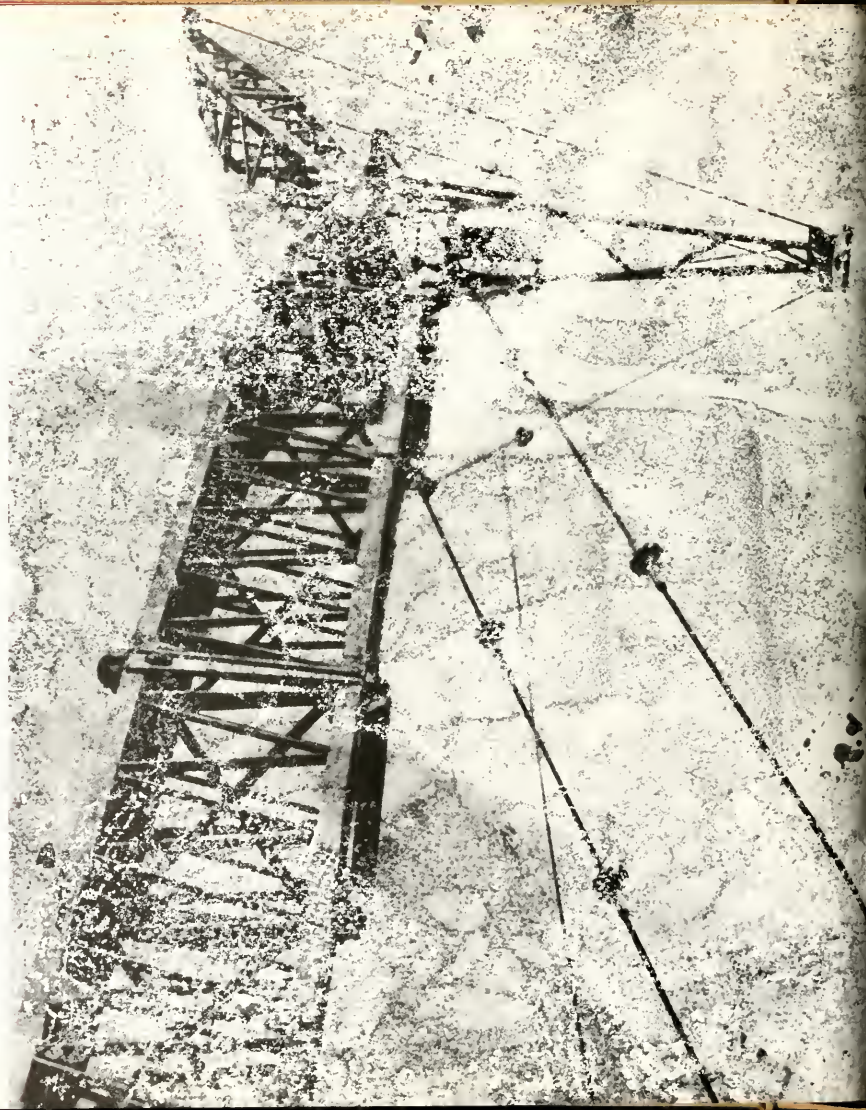

"Direct your eye right inward, and you'll find
A thousand regions in your mind
Yet undiscovered. Travel them, and be Expert in home-cosmography."

—Thoreau

The real attractions of the Hollowell farm, to me, were: its complete retirement, being about two miles from the village, half a mile from the nearest neighbor, and separated from the highway by a broad field; its bounding on the river, which the owner said protected it by its fogs from frosts in the spring, though that was nothing to me; the gray color and ruinous state of the house and barn, and the dilapidated fences, which put such an interval between me and the last occupant; the hollow and lichen-covered apple trees, gnawed by rabbits, showing what kind of neighbors I should have . . .

—Thoreau

If thou art worn and hard beset
With sorrows, that thou wouldst forget,
If thou wouldst read a lesson, that will keep
Thy heart from fainting, and thy soul from sleep,
Go to the woods and hills! — no tears
Dim the sweet look that nature wears.
 —Longfellow

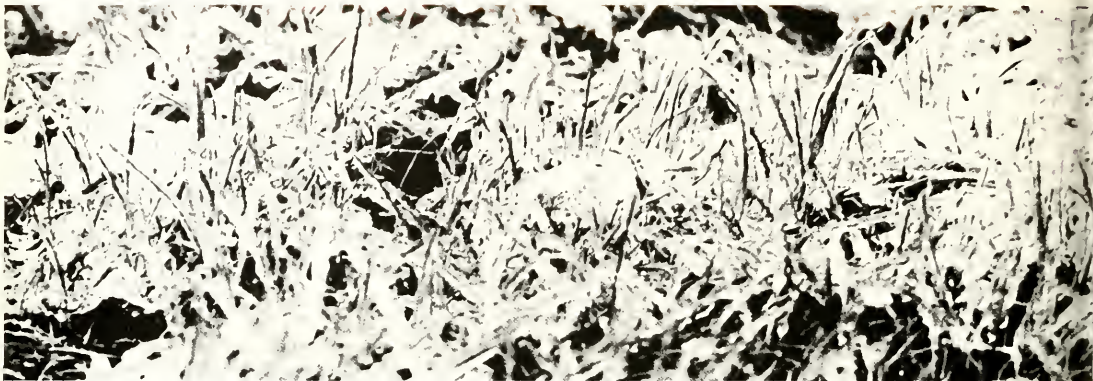

Why is it that a bucket of water soon becomes putrid, but frozen remains sweet forever?
—Thoreau

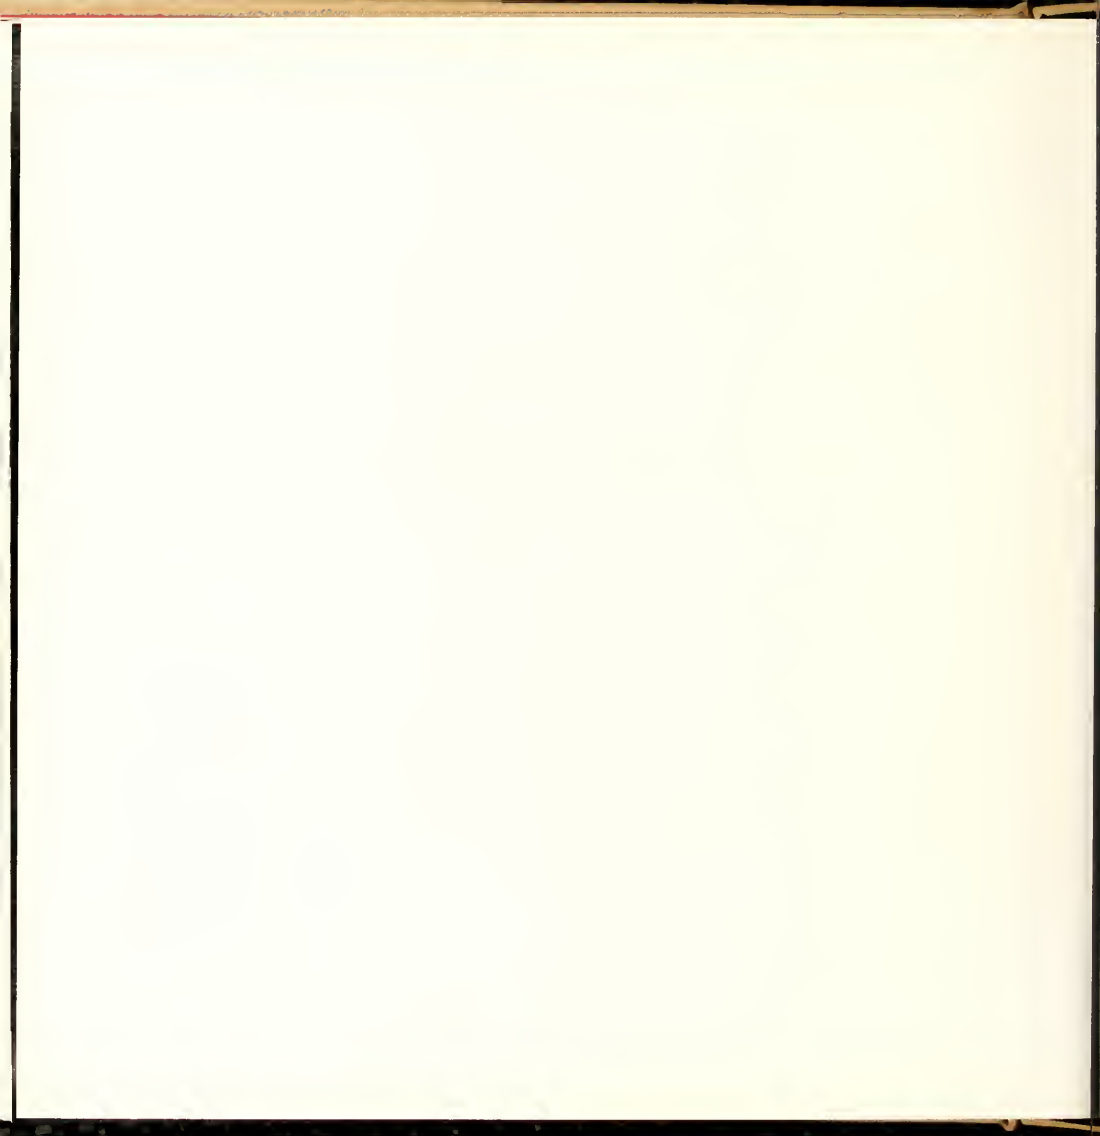

Not till we are lost, in other words not till we have lost the world, do we begin to find ourselves, and realize where we are and the infinite extent of our relations . . .

—Thoreau

I long ago lost a hound, a bay horse, and a turtledove, and am still on their trail. Many are the travellers I have spoken concerning them, describing their tracks and what calls they answered to. I have met one or two who had heard the hound, and the tramp of the horse, and even seen the dove disappear behind a cloud, and they seemed as anxious to recover them as if they had lost them themselves . . .

—Thoreau

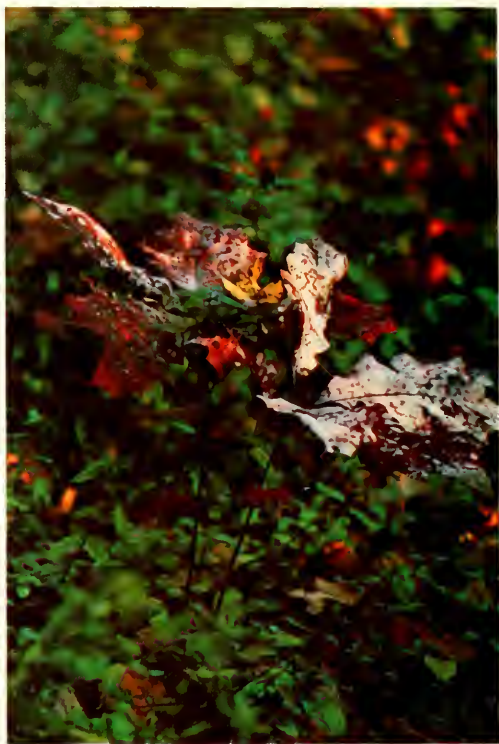

We can never have enough of nature. We must be refreshed by the sight of inexhaustible vigor, vast and titanic features, the sea-coast with its wrecks, the wilderness with its living and its decaying trees, the thunder-cloud, and the rain which lasts three weeks and produces freshets...

—Thoreau

Simplicity, simplicity, simplicity! I say, let your affairs be as two or three, and not a hundred or a thousand; instead of a million count half a dozen, and keep your accounts on your thumb-nail. In the midst of this chopping sea of civilized life, such are the clouds and storms and quicksands and thousand-and-one items to be allowed for, that a man has to live, if he would not founder and go to the bottom and not make his port at all, by dead reckoning, and he must be a great calculator indeed who succeeds. Simplify, simplify . . .

—Thoreau

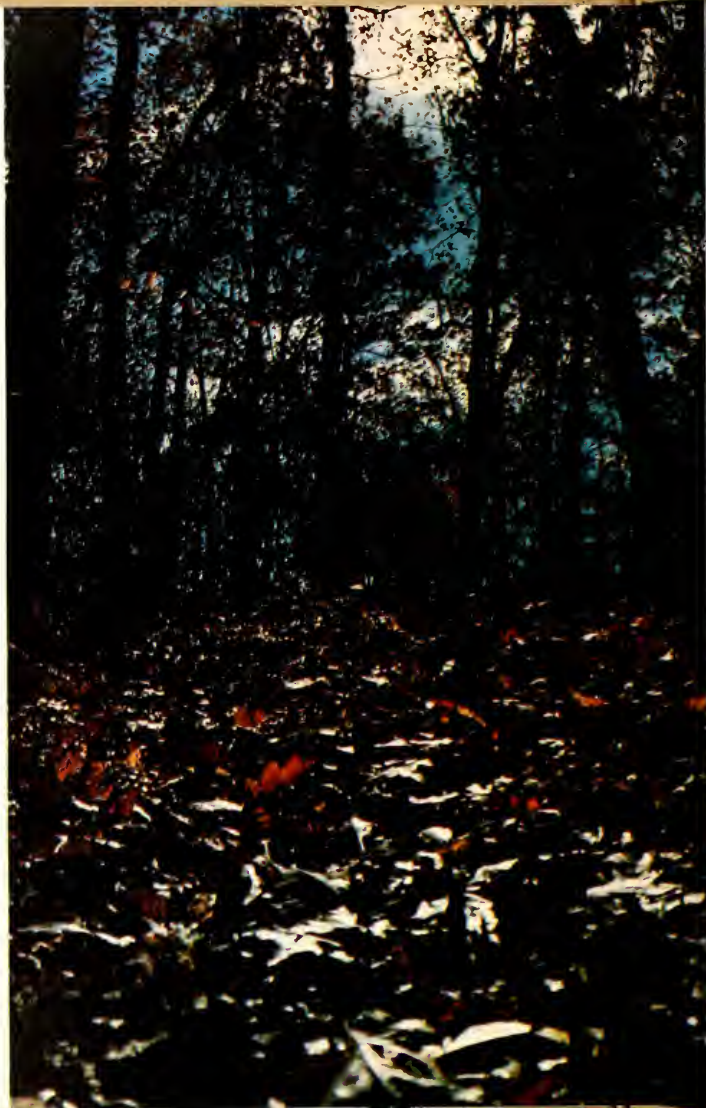

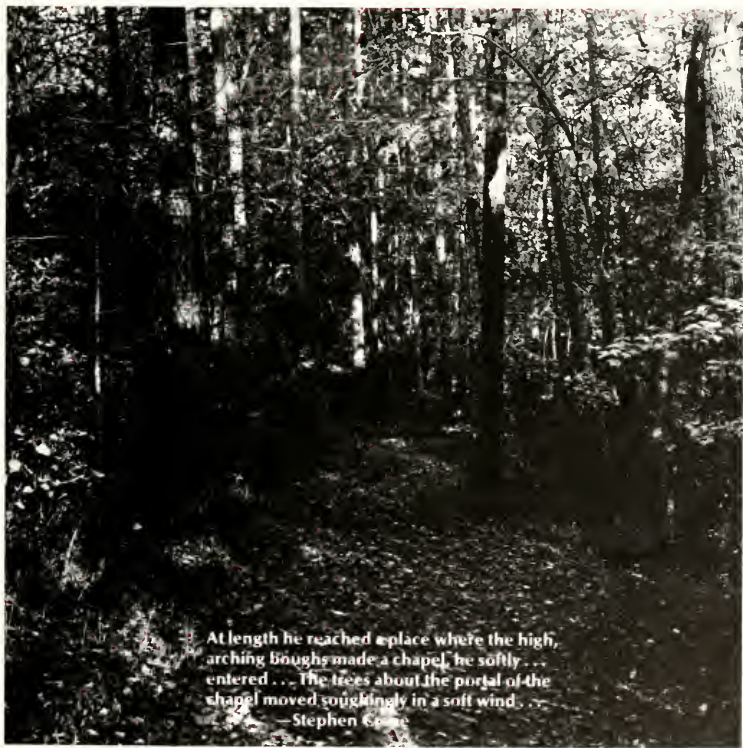

It is an interesting question how far men would retain their relative rank if they were divested of their clothes . . .
—Thoreau

At length he reached a place where the high,
arching boughs made a chapel, he softly... entered... The trees about the portal of the chapel moved soothingly in a soft wind.

—Stephen Crane

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods,
There is a rapture on the lonely shores,
There is a society where none intrudes
By the deep sea, and music in its roar;
I love not man the less, but nature more.

—Byron

They call us the "Children of Aquarius," because we are the children of the future, aware of the conflicts between destruction and creation, between ugliness and beauty. Yet we witness a society plummeting into decadence! We read of poverty, disease, suffering, murder, and wars, but we glance away and hide in the Wake Forest Cloister. Can't we stop this seemingly infinite cycle – stop Vietnams, stop racial prejudices, stop the exploitation of nature? Can't we stop adding to the violence ourselves? Let us not leave our children a chaotic, fear-filled world. Our parents have bequeathed us one hell of a mess, but aren't most of us passing on the bequest to our children? The solutions aren't easy and can't be solved negatively with a rock in the streets. Let us return again to man's historical relationship with the forces and patterns of nature. Let us once more join harmoniously the world ecological system that we have dismissed in our century. Let us find again the best in ourselves and cherish even the minutiae of nature . . .
